

Writing Resumes: A Guide for Undergrads

What is a Resume?

A resume is a snapshot of the education, experience, and skills you have that are valuable to an employer. Its main purpose is to convince a potential employer to invite you for an interview – to make them want to learn more about you. Resumes are used to screen applicants and determine which candidates have the background most closely matching the employers' needs. It answers the questions: "have you", "can you", and "will you do the job".

Before writing a resume, you should...

- Research the industry and the job so you fully understand what the employer is seeking.
- Learn to speak their language. Pay attention to vocabulary that is particular to the industry.
- Learn about the trends developing in the industry.
- Identify core skills needed for the job so you can highlight and emphasize your relevant prior experiences and skills.

To craft a successful resume, you should...

- Quickly and succinctly capture an employer's interest. Most employers only spend 30 seconds reviewing a resume!
- Emphasize and quantify accomplishments rather than simply listing responsibilities in your past experiences. Be as specific as possible! For example: "designed and delivered 20 math tutoring lessons to a group of seven, fifth, and sixth graders".
- Highlight transferable skills, which are skills you acquired in one context or situation that are valuable in another. Examples include: communication, teamwork, organizational, etc.
- Keep a master resume. When you submit your resume for opportunities, it should be limited to one page, but it's helpful to keep a "master resume" with all of your experiences so that you can be strategic and intentional when choosing the most relevant experiences and accomplishments that fit the opportunity.

Do's and Don'ts

- Do proofread your resume for grammar and spelling.
- Do quantify and be specific whenever possible. For example: "Coordinated the planning of a 4-day student run conference for 100 participants, including accommodation and venues".
- Do use consistent formatting with your font, bullet points, alignment, and spacing.
- Do organize the information on your resume in reverse chronological order.
- Do pay close attention to verb tenses in your bullets.
- Do keep your resume to one page.
- Do be truthful about your accomplishments without undervaluing your experiences.
- Don't use phrases like "responsible for" and "was in charge of". Instead, use more action-oriented language.
- Don't begin bullets with "I" or use complete sentences.
- Don't include personal information such as your social security number, age, or citizenship details.
- Don't list unrelated, minor duties such as "opened mail" or "filed documents".

Resume Sections

- Contact Information: always put your current address, phone number, and UChicago email address at the top of the page. If you're applying to opportunities in your hometown, consider adding your home address as well.
- Education: starting with UChicago, list your degrees, major/minor, institution, expected date of graduation, study abroad experiences, and GPA (if above 3.00).
- Honors: in this section, include your academic honors such as Dean's List, scholarships, or honors societies. These can also be listed as a sub-section under education.
- Experience: include your employment, internships, significant campus leadership offices, volunteer work, and relevant class/research projects. Make sure to include your job title, the name of the organization, location, and dates worked. Do not worry about separating your paid and unpaid experiences, remember the focus should be on emphasizing accomplishments, responsibilities, and skills that are appropriate to the position you're applying for.
- Leadership & Activities: list college or high school activities including student government, fraternities/sororities, student clubs, and sports activities etc. that have not been mentioned elsewhere. These activities can also be included in Experience.
- Skills & Interest: some basic skills to include in this section are foreign language proficiencies, computer programs, and certifications. If you have space, consider including a list of 3-5 interests (cello, Indian cuisine, running half-marathons).

YOUR NAME

Street Address

City, State Zip Code

Telephone Number

youremail@uchicago.edu

EDUCATION

Institution, City, State

Degree, expected Month Year

GPA: X.XX/4.00

Relevant Courses: [Note: This is optional, however if you do choose to include courses, refrain from adding course numbers because it may not mean as much to an outside audience.]

Name of High School, City, State

Diploma, Month Year

[Note: Include GPA, class rank, or any other exceptional academic honor that might inform employers of your scholastic achievements. By the third year, most students should take their high school off their resume. Exceptions to this include if you want to establish a geographic tie to your hometown, or if your high school has strong name recognition or an alumni network.]

EXPERIENCE

Organization, City, State

Title, Month Year – Month Year

- Describe your experience, skills, etc. in bullet form

[Note: Include bulleted description above. Start with action verbs describing your skills and include details that will help employers understand your accomplishments, skills, knowledge, personal characteristics, and experience level. Include quantity, frequency, or impact of your work whenever possible. Consider answering the following questions to help you write more effective bullet points, but do not use sub-bullets in the resume; longer descriptions may lend themselves to using sentence fragment/ paragraph style instead of bullets:

- What did you do? What were the results of your work?
- What were your accomplishments?
- How did you help the organization? What impact did your tasks have on your colleagues, your department, or the organization as a whole?
- What did you learn? What skills/knowledge did you enhance?
- How does this experience relate to your internship/employment goal?

ACTIVITIES, COMMUNITY SERVICE or LEADERSHIP [Examples of descriptive headings]

Title, Organization, City, State, Dates

[Note: This section can be formatted exactly like your experience section or you can omit a description. If this section's experience is more relevant to the type of work you're pursuing, consider putting it above experience. Your activities don't have to be separated into different categories; you can always include these activities in your Experience section.]

SKILLS

[Note: List computer, language, and any other skills relevant to the position you're applying for. Other types of skills (e.g., communication skills, organizational skills) should not be listed, but rather incorporated into your descriptions above.]

SKILLS

Computer: Proficient in Microsoft Word, PowerPoint, Excel, Java and FileMaker

Language: Proficient in reading and writing Spanish

INTERESTS

Competitive fencing, marathon training, southern cuisine

Your interests aren't qualifications for a job necessarily, but they provide employers with topics about which they can inquire at the beginning of an interview. This often helps you relax and leads to a better interview but can easily be dropped if space is an issue.
